Mike Bantom
Executive Vice President, Referee Operations
National Basketball Association

Mike Bantom is entering his fourth season as Executive Vice President of Referee Operations for the National Basketball Association. Bantom oversees the league’s officiating program, including recruiting, training, and development of all NBA officials. Prior to assuming his current position in 2012, Bantom spent 13 years as Senior Vice President of Player Development. In that role, he oversaw and administered all of the NBA’s programs that orientate, educate, and enhance its players in an effort to help them realize their full potential on and off the court. Some of the league’s most acclaimed initiatives, including the Rookie Transition Program, the Team Player Development Program, the NBA Continuing Education Program, and the Player Substance Abuse Program, all fell under the Player Development umbrella that Bantom managed.

From 1997 to 1999, Bantom worked in the NBA New Jersey office as Vice President of NBA Events and Attractions, where he was responsible for NBA All-Star Jam Session at NBA All-Star, as well as other major NBA interactive events. Bantom lived overseas from 1994 to ‘97, where he helped establish the NBA Europe headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. In his efforts to grow the sport of basketball globally, Bantom established the Converse/NBA 3-on-3 World Tour and from 1992 to ‘94 managed the the NBA Africa Tour and NBA Coaches Clinics Tour to Europe, Asia, Australia, Africa, and South America.

The NBA promoted Bantom to International Director of Marketing Programs in 1992. His primary responsibilities in that job were to plan and implement programs designed to build the NBA brand and promote the sport of basketball globally. Following the worldwide explosion of basketball started by the 1992 Olympic Dream Team, Bantom oversaw a number of NBA basketball/marketing programs that were key ingredients of the league’s global expansion strategy, and were designed to take advantage of and increase the NBA’s growing popularity around the world.

In 1989, the NBA hired Bantom as the Licensing Manager for NBA International after a 16-year professional playing career in the NBA and in Europe. Bantom played in the NBA from 1973 through 1982, and then played seven more seasons in the Italian Professional League before retiring in 1989. He averaged 12.1 points and 6.4 rebounds per game in his nine-year NBA career, and made the NBA All-Rookie team after Phoenix drafted him as the eighth overall pick in the 1973 NBA Draft. Bantom was a member of the 1972 U.S. Olympic basketball team that was involved in the controversial final game versus the Soviet Union in Munich.

A graduate of St. Joseph’s University, Bantom holds a bachelor’s degree in marketing. He is a devoted father to four children: Robbie, Misha, Brenda, and Alan.
As Senior Vice President of Referee Operations & Analytics at the National Basketball Association, Steven Angel oversees the league’s game and referee analytics program, which is focused on monitoring and improving performance, detecting and eliminating bias and improving the rules of the game.

Angel is largely responsible for designing the league’s comprehensive, data-driven effort to collect and analyze referees calling and non-calling data. Angel also works on referee communications, particularly areas related to transparency, call reporting, clarifying the playing rules, website content (e.g., misunderstood rules, the video rulebook) and in-game issues that arise during the season.

Prior to joining the league, Angel worked for Sibson Consulting, a division of the Segal Company in the area of performance management and resource planning. In addition to the NBA, Angel’s clients included high-profile organizations such as the NFL, the NHL, 3M, Corning, Merrill Lynch and Pfizer.

Angel holds an M.B.A from New York University.
Joe Borgia, Senior Vice President, Replay and Referee Operations was a member of the NBA's Basketball Operations Department from 1999 until the Referee Operations Department was formed at the start of the 2008-09 season. He was Director of Referee Development and Director of Officiating Programs and Development prior to being named Vice President in 2008.

Borgia is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the NBA Replay Center. He spent two seasons testing equipment and assisting in the design of that facility. His Referee Operations duties will continue to include the television show “Making the Call” on NBA TV, creating training videos, interpreting the rules of the game for officials, teams, broadcasters and media, and oversight of the WNBA officiating program.

Borgia began his professional officiating career in 1978 at age 22, when he joined the staff of the New York Pro-Am league. He spent eight years in the Continental Basketball Association (CBA) and in 1988 was hired to the NBA staff. He officiated 10 seasons before an injury forced him to retire in 1998. He has worked two of the most famous games in NBA history, the highest scoring game, Detroit @ Denver 186-184 on 12/13/83 and the longest modern day game, Seattle @ Milwaukee, 5 overtimes on 11/9/89.

Borgia grew up surrounded by NBA officiating. He is the son of the late Sid Borgia, a legendary referee who officiated in the NBA for 20 years beginning in 1946. Sid Borgia also served as supervisor of officials during the latter years of his career and continued as an observer after retiring.

Borgia resides in New Jersey and St Petersburg, Fla. He is married to Linda and they have a daughter Marisa and son Matthew.
Bob Delaney is entering his second season as Vice President Referee Operations for the National Basketball Association. Delaney is responsible for Referee Development and Performance. Prior to his current position Delaney served as a Referee Development Advisor (2012) and Crew Chief Development Advisor (2013). He began his NBA Referee career in 1987 and retired in 2011 after working 1500 regular, 159 Play-off, 9 Finals and 2 All Star games. He also worked NBA games in Japan, China and Dominican Republic.

He provided the initial Referee Leadership Development program in 2001 which has grown into the Performance Enhancement Program (PEP). PEP provides training in Teamwork, Leadership, Communication, Mental Conditioning, Mental Rehearsal, Resiliency and Ethics developing life skills for professional and personal growth.

Delaney was named an NBA Cares Ambassador when his officiating career ended and some award recognitions he received are Naismith Hall of Fame Mannie Jackson Human Spirit Award, Armed Forces Foundation Leadership Award, President Obama’s Volunteer Service Award, U.S. Army Outstanding Civilian Service Medal and the prestigious National Association Sports Association Gold Whistle Award.

Delaney is the first referee ever appointed as a Basketball Hall of Fame Board member. John Doleva, Hall of Fame President/CEO said “Bob Delaney is one of the most well-respected referees the game has ever seen, this is because of the tremendous man he has proven to be both on and off the court. He represents the game with the utmost integrity, and we are very pleased to have him joining our board of trustees.”

Delaney was a highly decorated New Jersey State Trooper prior to his NBA career and infiltrated Organized Crime in one of law enforcements most notable long term undercover operations in the 1970’s. His story has been told by ABC, ESPN, HBO and numerous other media outlets. He has authored two books- Covert, My Years Infiltrating the Mob & Surviving the Shadows – A Journey of Hope into Post Traumatic Stress.

He holds a St. Mary’s College of California Master’s degree in Leadership and a New Jersey City University B.S. Criminology.
Don Vaden, Vice President, Director of Officials, has been a member of the Referee Operations staff for more than 10 years and has served in various management roles in the NBA's officiating program.

He served as the director of officiating at numerous NBA summer leagues, training NBA and NBA D-League referees. Vaden has worked as a Group Supervisor, a Crew Chief Coordinator and a Transition Coordinator in the NBA's Officiating Program. He has also acted as a site director at summer training camps and a presenter of information at Preseason Training Camp.

Vaden is responsible for the day-to-day management and on-court performance of the officiating staff.

In his 15-season officiating career with the NBA, Vaden officiated 854 Regular Season games and 59 Playoffs and Finals games before retiring in 2002.

The NBA Video Rulebook Web site (http://www.nba.com/videorulebook/) illustrates fouls and violations with real, in-game video clips to test knowledge of and learn more about NBA game rules. The Web site currently features more than 100 videos and accompanying descriptions and will be continually updated with new video examples throughout the season.

Videos and descriptions you will find include:

- Blocks and charges, including collisions between on ball defenders and offensive players, how the rules apply to the restricted area, and legal positioning and trajectory of players.

- Fouls and violations of post play, including legal defensive techniques and examples of common offensive and defensive fouls committed near the basket.

- Illegal screen and pick techniques used by offensive players.

- Flagrant Fouls (1 and 2) and explanations of why certain hard fouls are not considered flagrant.

- Traveling and dribbling violations, including moves that an offensive player with the ball is allowed to use.

- Free throw violations by the shooter, other offensive players, and defensive players.

- Technical fouls that violate a respect for the game, slow the speed of the game, or exhibit poor sportsmanship.

- Instant replay and examples of appropriate use.

- Miscellaneous rule violations that involve timeout requests, fouls in the act of shooting, hand checking, fouls away from the play, inbounds fouls, and more.

Please note that the video Web site is not a substitute for the Official NBA Rulebook, which takes precedence over any discrepancies written on the site.
